

U.S. NATIONAL/ US OPEN CHAMPIONSHIPS

U.S. National/US Open Champions—Men's Singles

National Championships of the United States Tennis Association were provided for when that body was organized on May 21, 1881. Prior to that time, so-called national championships had been held, in some cases several being contested in one year, but conditions varied at each tournament and the implementation and equipment of the game had not become standardized. The first championship of the United States played under uniform conditions, open to all men, and sanctioned by the national association was held at The Casino, Newport, Rhode Island, in August 1881. The championship was held there without interruption for the next thirty-four years. From 1915 to 1920, the West Side Tennis Club staged the tournament at Forest Hills, New York, and from 1921 to 1923 it was held at the Germantown Cricket Club, Philadelphia. In 1924, after the completion of the West Side Tennis Club Stadium, the championship returned to Forest Hills and was held there until 1978, when it moved to the USTA's brand new tennis complex at Flushing, New York. Championships have been held each year since 1881 with the exception of 1917. In that year only, National Patriotic Tournaments were sanctioned by the national association because of the participation of the United States in World War I. The Challenge Round was instituted in 1884 and abandoned after the 1911 championship. During those years the champion "stood out"—did not play through the tournament—meeting the winner of All-Comers in a Challenge Round for the championship.

U.S. National/US Open Champions—Men's Doubles

Prior to 1890, the national doubles championship was played in conjunction with the singles tournament. From 1890 to 1906, tournaments were held in the East and West, and the sectional winners at these meets then played off for the privilege of meeting the standing-out champions in the Challenge Round. In 1907, there were three sections competing in preliminary doubles, and this number was increased in subsequent years. In 1917, a play-through National Patriotic Tournament was held, as no championships were sanctioned that year. The 1918 championship was also a play-through tournament, the sectional and preliminary doubles and the Challenge Round having been done away with. In 1919, the plan of the qualifying sectional winners was restored, although an exception was made in the case of the Australian teams which were on a visit to the United States at that time, and the last Challenge Round in national doubles was played that year. Since 1920, there have been few changes in the conditions that now prevail. The Mixed Doubles Championship was contested in conjunction with the women's national tournament until 1921, after which it was added to the men's doubles competition. In 1935, the Women's Doubles Championship was added to the Doubles Championship Tournament, and the Mixed Doubles Championship was added to the Singles Championship Tournament.

U.S. National/US Open Champions—Women's Singles

The national women's championships were held at the Philadelphia Cricket Club from 1887 to 1920. They moved to Forest Hills in 1921, remained there through 1977, and then moved to the USTA's new tennis complex at Flushing Meadows in 1978. Originally the mixed doubles and women's doubles were played in connection with the Women's Singles Championship tournament. In 1921, the mixed doubles and in 1935, the women's doubles were transferred and made part of the National Doubles Championship program. From 1942 to 1945, inclusive, the women's doubles, and since 1942 the mixed doubles, were played in connection with the men's championships.
